This unique quality product contains a blend of protease enzymes. Lice and nits can build up resistance to traditional pesticide preparations, and this treatment is an excellent alternative. Head lice are eradicated quickly in a 10-15 minute treatment. Also many hours of nit combing for weeks with uncertain results can be avoided by using Not Nice to Lice.

The pleasant peppermint fragrance means you won't have to hold your nose and it doesn't harm your pocket as Not Nice to Lice is one of the most economical products available on the market.

Following a patient's request to their physician, Not Nice to Lice was recently featured in the publication of The New Generalist (the magazine of the Royal College of General Practitioners) and also Nursing in Practice.

Customers can purchase 3 sizes - 5, 10 and 24 treatments.

Many satisfied customers tell us they wouldn't use anything else now they have found Not Nice to Lice.

'My daughter has very long thick hair - used the product once earlier this year and followed up with another treatment and she was clear. It's also useful to use as a preventative too. It's much better to get the natural stuff rather than the chemicals - I tell everybody I can about it!'
(Mrs Mc, Antrim Sept 06)

Absolutely fantastic - I used it and it worked - it had gone after two applications. I have tried all the other products and they just don't work.
(Mrs M, Killarney Jan 06)

The good news is that Not Nice to Lice is gradually being made available in your local pharmacies - please ask at your local pharmacy.

Recently the Local Government Association claimed that each year in the UK there are 7.2 million Head lice in circulation which are now resistant to chemical treatment, and warned that infestations were becoming a major source of disruption to schooling.
